

Award Tehtäväiekka Studies 2022

First of all, I would like to thank Jorma Paavilainen, the editor-in-chief of Tehtäväiekka, for trusting me to be the editor of the study section. It was important and very honorable for me...

It was very difficult for me to judge the year 2022. Last year, we had a full-scale war in Ukraine. Almost a year has passed, and misfortune continues to knock on Ukrainian families – every day people who lived on their land and on whom there is no blame are dying and suffering. From now on, all Ukrainians have a common plan: one for all. We want to end the war with victory, mourn the dead and breathe peace again...

In the annual competition Tehtäväiekka – 2022, 17 composers, representing 11 countries, participated. The composers sent in 19 studies. It is generally agreed that the creative attitudes and tastes of the judges are reflected in its awarding, one way or another. Works in which there was an element of novelty were eligible for honours. The degree of originality was decisive in determining the final rank. And then, the way the idea of the study is expressed, that is, how deeply the possibilities of the position are opened, regardless of the material used. In general, I am close to studies with simple and natural constructions (without forced exchange). The solution should not be too simple and must necessarily contain pointe movements...
